

Welcome to the Alamo Region Tech Prep Consortium website. Our consortium is working hard to provide clear and seamless career pathways that prepare our area's youth for college and/or employment in high-skill, high wage occupations while encouraging a culture of lifelong learning.

Our Consortium is guided by several fundamental objectives. They are:

- Collaborating with employers and economic development entities to establish career pathways appropriate to the regional economy;
- Leveraging resources necessary to support career pathways development;
- Facilitating collaboration among Consortium members to implement the career pathways;
- Prioritizing appropriate professional development activities to promote the implementation of career pathways among the Consortium member entities;
- Conducting marketing and public relations activities to inform employers, parents, students and other Tech Prep publics of the benefits of career pathways; and
- Adhering to applicable laws and regulations pertaining to Consortium activities.

As you explore our website, please review the Programs of Study and the corresponding six-year plans delineating a career pathway. You can also find information on planned workshops, professional development sessions, and Tech Prep activities hosted at any one of the college campuses. If for any reason you can't find what you need, contact our Tech Prep staff for assistance, they'll be happy to assist you.

Lastly, please visit our website often as new information and current material will be available regularly. I want to thank you for your interest and support of Tech Prep programs that provide opportunities for youths to reach their potential.
